THE GAZETTE.

TUESDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 8.

THE CHURCHES OF GENOA .- I have said the Genoese are pious, and I must now speak of some of their religious customs. Before the dred and fifty churches in this city; at present there are about eighty, all of which deserve a visit either on account of their architectural beauty, their costly marbles, or the works of art they contain. The ceilings of many of them glossy with hypericked at present tion to stable, cow house and other necessary out-buildings, it has a convenient summer kitchen. The lot attached is large enough for a nice garden. The property is in West End, within one minute's walk of the street railroad.

Apply to [iy 20-tf] J. H. WATKINS. revolution of '93 there were at laest three hunof them gleam with burnished gold and are vivid with all the colors of the rainbow; pillars of porphyry, jasper, and even of agate support the glittering roofs; and the altars are frequently composed of mosaics in which malachite, lapis-lazuli and similar stones are lavishly used; while in the Duomo and Annunziata the altars are of pure silver. Pictures by Vandyke, Rubens, Guido, Giulio Romano and Pierino la Vaga adorn them, and the chapels are often covered with frescoes by Piola and the two Cambiasi, who surpassed Corregio in the beauty of their putti or cherubim.

On festivals the number of tapers burnt before the sacred shrines is very great. I have seen the Aonunziata illuminated with ten thousand wax lights. This is considered the most gorgeous church in Italy, and on the occasion I speak of its interior rather resembled a hall in Aladdin's palace than a place of prayer. A hundred chandeliers hung from the golden roof and caught upon their sparkling prisms the twinkling of the thousands of tapers which were arranged in wreaths, garlands and monograms about the ten altars which line either side of the magnificent temple. The twenty, four marble columns dividing the nave were encircled at their capitals with a blaze of light, and the high altar was almost too dazzling to look at. The superb rosso antique columns in this church are said to have cost the united families of Lomellini, Durazzo and Pallavicino a million francs apiece, or one million sterling for the twentyfour. - L'ppincott's Magazine for September.

Political Discussion.

We are authorized to announce that General Eppa Hunton and Mr. James Barbour will address the people of the counties named on the court days of the respective counties as follows: Rappahannock, 2d Monday in September. Fairfax, 3d Monday in Septer ber. Orange, 4th Monday in September. Madison, 4th Thursday in September.

A Card.

The determination of my friends yesterday evening that my name ought not to be presented to the convention then in session, after the extraordinary action of that body in excluding the five regularly elected delegates from the Scott townshap, in Fauquier county, imposes upon me a duty which I must perform. I an-nounce myself a candidate to represent this District in the next Congress of the United States. If the Republican party presents a candidate, I will submit to the arbitrament of any Conservative convention that may be elected in accordance with the established plan of organization. JAS. BARBOUR.
